Introduction to the feminist Development Policy – Women in Development

This Seminar focuses on the critical topic of feminist development policy and its significance in advancing gender equality worldwide.

Despite women's ongoing effort, patriarchal power structures continue to hinder progress by normalizing male dominance and excluding women from decision making processes.

How can feminist foreign policy include and support the work of women in the Global South? What strategies can be employed to transform current development models into sustainable ones that prioritize gender equality and women's rights?

Join the conversation for change.

We are safe, when we are all safe

We sincerely welcome you to join the seminar!
