How can we feed the World?

The right to food is a human right and states have human rights obligations to ensure that this right is protected and respected. In addition, states must put in place legal frameworks to ensure that the right to food is fulfilled. United Nations human Rights mechanisms have been established to monitor the compliance of human rights by states including the right to food and nutrition.

And yet part of humanity still suffers from hunger or malnutrition.

How can we find solutions to this problem?

We will deal with the "Global Bean Project" as well as concepts such as nutrition advice, Solidarity-based agriculture and consider to what extent these can be part of the solution.

Join us as we discover the story of rice and Jumeokbap, Korea's beloved rice balls known for their simplicity, portability, and delicious flavors. In this workshop, you'll learn about different types of rice and how to combine them with various ingredients to create your own unique Jumeokbap.

We'll also share tips to help you prepare these versatile Jumeokbap for lunchboxes or picnics.

Let's explore, cook, and enjoy together!

We look forward to your participation!
